in a repetition of Francois Mitterrand's clear-cut election as president May 10, the Socialists and their left-wing radical allies Sunday took close to 40 percent of the vote in the first round of elections to the National Assembly. Most computer predictions showed they were headed for an absolute majority in the assembly after next Sunday's run-off vote.

Overall, the left-wing parties took 55.73 percent of the vote, despite a slump in Com-munist support to 16.17 percent, with the Socialists taking 37.51 percent, the extreme leftists 1.33 and small left-wing groups 0.72.

Leaders of France's right parties surveyed the damage and prepared to launch into a week of desperate campaigning aimed at bringing back to the poll nearly a third of the electorate which abstained Sunday.

The right saw its share of the vote fall to 43.15 percent with the neo-Gaullists taking 20.80 percent, the center-right candidates 19.20, small right-wing groups 2.80 and extreme rightists 0.35 percent.

Next Sunday's contest should largely be a battle between just one candidate from the left and one from the right. The Communists, Socialists and left-wing radicals bave a pact to stand down in favor of the candidate from their side with the most first round votes. The

The Socialists, therefore, may be able to govern alone, although they have strongly indicated that they want the Communists' support.

The conditions laid down by the Socialists for the appointment of Communist ministers include demands for a virtual break with the Soviet Union by the Moscow-aligned French party on such issues as Poland, Afghanistan and the stationing in Eastern Europe of Soviet SS-20 missiles.

Even if no agreement is reached on cabinet participation, the Socialists would clearly like Communist support for the implementation of their policies, including the nationalization of 11 major industrial groups. Despite their dramatic decline from once being able to command nearly a quarter of the votes in French elections, the Communists still control the C.G.T. trades union group, France's largest, and their leverage in industrial relations remains formidable.

Debate adjourned Condemn Israel, France tells Security Council

UNITED NATIONS, June 15 (R) -France urged the Security Council Monday to condemn Israel's destruction of a nuclear plant in Iraq and said the Israeli government should pay compensation. French delegate Jacques Leprette denied Israel's charge that the French-built reactor would have helped provide Iraq with nuclear bombs for use against Israel

The Security Council at 1:13 p.m. EDT (1713 GMT) Monday adjourned to 3 p.m. (1900GMT) the same day its debate on Israel's destruction of the Iraqi installation.

The Israeli airforce attacked the multimillion-dollar plant outside Baghdad June 7. While renewing France's commitment w Israeli security, Leprette appealed to Israel to end such military assaults and to pay repara-tions to Iraq. The plant, identical to two already in use in France, was for peaceful purposes, he said.

Leprette spoke during the third day of the council debate as Third World members supporting Iraq appeared ready to drop their demand for mandatory sanctions against Israel. The United States would veto sanctions, but its attitude to condemnation of Israel was not known.

U.S. officials said they did not know when chief U.S. delegate Jeane Kirkpatrick would speak. She discussed the situation Monday with Leprette and British envoy Sir Anthooy Parsons. A working paper circulated by the nonaligned states differed from a draft passed around on Friday.

Several paragraphs and phrases were in parentheses to indicate alternative formulations "urgently recommends" was bracketed as an alternative to "decides" in a paragraph that would have all states balt military, economie or technical aid to Israel "which might encourage it to pursue its policy of expansion and aggression."

For the earlier proposed demand that Israel place its nuclear facilities under international safeguards, Monday there was the alternative form 'strongly urges.' The new version also said that 'Iraq is entitled to prompt and adequate compensation for the material damage and loss of life suffered.'
Amman, King Hussein, referring to the surrender to Israeb terror' and charged U.S. arms supplies to Israel made "all Arabs a target on aggression."

"Israel, its supporters and those who bend to that supporter will have to know that this (Arab) nation will oever be bumiliated," the Jordanian monarch said Sunday in a commencement speech at Yarmuk University. "The Arabs will never be subdued, we will never surrender to Israeli terror.'

The 46-year-old monarch also rebuked unnamed Arab leaders for adopting what be described as oegative attitudes" in the face of Israeli aggression." He added that the Israeli attack would "kiodle a oew zest for advancement in the Arab world."

Iraqi President Saddam Hussein bas since declared that his country planned to rebuild the plant despite warnings from Israeli Prime Minister Menahem Begin that Israel would attack the facility again.

King Hussein said Israel was attacking the Arabs with weapons supplied by the United States and that these American arms placed in the hands of Israel bave made all Arabs the targets for aggressioo.

President Anwar Sadat also said Monday that the bombing of the Iraqi plant was intended in part as a "terrible" test for Egypt's desire to live in peace with Israel and bitterly complained that the attack provided Moscow and his Arab foes with ammunitioo to smear him.

In an interview with Mayo, the weekly organ of his ruling National Democratic Party, Sadat also said the Israeli raid has 'strongly shaken" peace in the area and. expressed fear that it would lead to "reopening of old wounds and rebuilding the psychological barrier between Israel and Arab countries, Sadat bas said that his visit to Jerusalem in 1977 has destroyed 70 percent

Meanwhile, President Reagan told President Sadat in a message Monday that he had urged both Israel and Syria to exert selfrestraint in order to reach a peaceful settlement of the missiles issue, the official Middle East News Agency (MENA) reported.

With 3 Arab states Libya seeks to restore ties

LONDON, June 15 (R) — Libyan leader Col. Muammar Qaddafi wants to meod his relations with Morocco, Saudi Arabia and Iraq, all of whom severed diplomatie ties with Tripoli on separate occasions last year, the official Libyan Jamahiriyah News Agency (JANA) has said.

In a despatch to Reuters in London Sunday JANA quoted Qaddafi as saying in a speech at an air base June 11: "We are ready to resume relations with Rabat, Riyadh and Baghdad. We declare that we have done away with all bilateral considerations. We have also decided not to incite any Arab differences until Israel is eliminated."

Arab countries, JANA quoted Qaddafi as saying Israel was a threat to all Arab countries after its air raid on an Iraqi nuclear research center last weekend. The Israeli nuclear center of Dimona should be destroyed in retaliation, he said in an interview last Thursday, the agency added. "As from now, the aim should be the elimination of Israel," the

After talks with Fahd Habib arrives in Damascus

DAMASCUS, June 15 (Agencies) — Philip Habib, President Ronald Reagan's Middle East envoy, arrived bere Mooday from Jeddah to cootinue talks with Syrian leaders on the tension between Syria and Israel. It is his fourth visit to Damascus during the American Mideast peace shuttle. Habib had more talks in Saodi Arabia Monday while a Saudi Arabian newspaper attacked his mission as irrelevant.

Habib conferred with Crown Prince Fahd in Jeddah, the official Saudi Press Agency reported. It said the meeting was attended by the Second Deputy Prime Minister and Commander of the National Guard Prince Abdullah Ibn Abdul Aziz, and the 'U.S. Ambassador-designate Robert Neumann.

Habib, who is on his second trip to the Kingdom since he was sent on the Middle East mission last month, bad talks Sunday with Foreign Minister Prince Saud Al-Faisal. The envoy flew to Saudi Arabia at the weekend after four-day talks in Beirut with Lebanese leaders. Reports from Tel Aviv Sunday said Habib was expected io Israel later this week. Israel bas repeatedly threatened to destroy the Syrian anti-aircraft missiles if Damascus refuses to withdraw them from Lebanon, and Monday Begin voiced his impatience with U.S. diplomatic efforts to remove Syrian missiles in Lebanon. "Are you moving the missiles or oot? If you're not moving them, then we will." Begin was quoted by the government press office as saying be would ask Habib later this week. He was speaking at a campaign rally in the coastal town of Natanya, 29 kms north of Tel Aviv.

Begin told U.S. television be "wanted to know the results of Habib's Mideast shuttle which resumed this week in an attempt to defuse the Israeli-Syrian tension.

The Syrian press while focusing on Begin's threat, charged that the United States was supporting Israel and practicing "silent diplomacy with military escalation," according to the government newspaper Tishrin.

It said Israeli military censorship beld up publication of the information last week but lifted the restriction when it became known that Prime Minister Menahem Begin was to make it public in a U.S. televisioo interview. But contrary to expectations, Begin stopped short of claiming the Americans had tipped off Israel. "I cannot accept such a statement," be told the CBS program "Face the Nation" Sunday. "But we had all the information months ago from reliable sources."

To save on fuel imports

Syria to build nuclear plant DAMASCUS, June 15 (R) - Syria is planning to build a nuclear power plant to generate electricity and reduce the high cost of importing fuel, Syrian Minister for Electricity Dr. Yousef said Monday.

The minister made the announcement at the opening session of the first Arab nuclear conference taking place in Damascus just over a week after Israeli jets destroyed an Iraqi nuclear research center outside Baghdad. Dr. Yousef said the Israeli air strike had been denounced by many countries throughout the world. It bad underlined the Syrian argument that "the enemy of the Arabs is international Zionism," he stated.

He told the conference that the Syrian ouc-lear plant would be completed by 1991. It was needed because of the rocketing costs Svria would bave to pay for its fuel imports in the 1990's. Ten Arab countries and the Palestine Liberation Organization (PLO) are taking part in the conference.

Also taking part are government and scientific organizations from France, West Germany, Britain, Japan, Sweden, Switzerland, India, the United States, Belgium, Finland and Italy along with representatives of the Arab League and the International Atomic Energy Agency.

A spokesman for the Syrian minister said the conference would discuss the pros and cons of nuclear energy usage in electrical fields throughout the Arab world.

"Syria's aim behind this conference is to probe the scientific aspirations and ambitions of the Arab world and to direct them toward an important source of energy in the coming 10 years, the spokesman said. Dr. Yousef said that development of the nuclear plant was vital for Syria. Consumption of electric power was expected to increase about seven-fold, be told delegates.

The United Arab Emirates said it was also planning to use atomic power to generate electricity. The electricity and water minister for the Emirates, Ahmad Bin Nasser Al-Oweiss, told reporters an expert from the International Atomic Energy Agency bad arrived in Abu Dbabi four months ago at the requuest of the UAE government to prepare a study on the proposed nuclear installation.

The power plant would probably be built by 1990, the minister added.

WASHINGTON, June 151SPA) - Foreign Minister Prince Saud Al Faisal said that Israel has been desperately trying through all its aggressive actions to prevent the realization of peace in the region and to convince the Arab states that no peace is possible in the Middle East

Prince Faisal, in an interview with ABC television's issues and answers program broadcast Sunday morning in the United States, denounced the security theory of Israel which is based on expansionist designs in the area

"Their concept of security is extended. Previously they did not want the Arab countries to have offensive weapons. Now suddenly it turns that even defensive wcapons are a threat to Israel. The missiles in Lebanon, the AWACS in Saudi Arabia, the reactor in Iraq. Pretty soon we will find that the concept of security for Israel might extend to bombing one of the universities in Saudi Arabia on the logic that, maybe, a scientist will come out of these universities to make a weapon which will be threatening to Israel," Prince Saud said

Calling on the U.S. to initiate a change in its policy towards Israel, Prince Saud said the current U.S. policy is to give unlimited support to Israel in whatever field, militarily and economically with the concept that this would make Israel more secure and bring about more cooperation and finally peace.

"But," the foreign minister said, "the reverse had happened. As Israel became more capable militarily with American supplies, it has been trying to achieve a solution on a military basis in the Middle East by striking everywhere,"

He hoped that the U.S. administration would take decisive actions to prevent the repeated Israeli aggressive attacks that have bindered the realization of peace in the area.

Prince Saud said, "it is not Israel that has to be secure. It is the Arab countries that have to feel more secure if they are to maintain their trust towards a settlement of the Palestinian problem. The Israelis are trying to convince the Arab countries that no peace is possible. What they are trying to do is prevent peace".

He expressed his deep anger over Israel baving been provided with destructive means beyond its capability or limitations. He said Israel has been lacking any sense of responsible feeling towards the region in which they are living. Condemning the Israeli air attack on the Iraqi nuclear plant, Prince Saud quoted the U.S. as baving stated clearly that the Iraqi reactor was not an offensive weapons producing reactor and that the unprovoked Israeli action contradicted the agreements on armaments.

The prince hoped that there would be action by the U.S., who has now given Israel the capability to strike anywhere without restrictions. That has even restricted the U.S. from giving defensive weapons to other coun-

He urged the U.S. administration to shoulder its responsibility by concentrating on dealing with Israel's aggressive actions and policy which have become the prime factor for the unstable situation in the region.

Majed receives Japanese minister

By Ahmad Kamel Khusro

JEDDAH, June 15 — Governor of Makkah Prince Majed held talks here Monday with Japanese Transportation Minister Masajuro Shiokawa, who is currently on a three-day visit to the Kingdom to promote cooperation between the two countries. The meeting was attended by Dr. Fayez Badr, Saudi Ports Authority president and head of the council administrating the ports in Saudi Arabia.

Earlier in the day, the Japanese minister along with Deputy Vice Minister of Transportation Shoji Ishizuki and other members of the delegation held a meeting with Dr. Badr at Jeddah Islamic Port. It was attended by Muhammad Abdul Karim Bakr, general nanager of Saudi Ports Authority, and other op officials.

After the forenoon deliberations, Bakr old Arab News that the talks covered levelopment of Saudi ports and maritime ransport. The two teams also discussed ways of enhancing co-operation between Saudi Arabian and Japanese port authorities in the naritime operations and facil ating the exchange of information by increasing the requency of visits by officials of the two

Bakr said that they also reviewed the involvement of Japanese companies in the development programs of Saudi Arabian ports. The Kingdom's officials impressed upon their Japanese counterparts the need for their companies to increase the share of work in upgrading Saudi Arabian ports by making "good offers'. In this context, the Japanese minister said he would try to bring home this point to the Japanese companies involved in maritime transport.

To round off the discussions, the Japanese delegation was taken on a tour of the Jeddah Islamic Port. They saw the expanding facilities, improvement of tounage after the easing of cogestion which had beset the port a few years ago. The Japanese minister showed keen interest in the port's development in a short time and said that this reflected the capability of Saudi Arabian port officials headed by Dr. Badr.

The Japanese minister is expected Monday evening to tour the city and visit the old and new landmarks before attending a dinner in his honor by the Japanese embassy in Jeddah.

The delegation's schedule for Tuesday mcludes a visit to the King Abdul Aziz mternational airport in the morning and a meeting later with Sheikh Kamel Sindi, assistant for civil aviation affairs in the ministry of defense and aviation. Later, Shiokawa will attend a dinner by Dr. Badr at Hyatt Regency hotel.

COMMENT

By Samir Shamma Al Medina

The people of the Arahian Peninsula have been known for their patriotism, and Arabian poetry is a living witness to this fact. But, useful patriotism should always be based on knowledge; and learning, and ought to be free from the dislike of others and from a permaneot fear that may have no justification. Patriotism should teach us to help others and improve their condition, but this cannot be achieved through a loathsome attitude toward the foreigner, or by trying to send him out even if the country is in need of his services.

Patriotism ought to be deep-rooted in the hearts of people who can derive inspiration from a Palestinian child, for example, who, though born outside Palestine, works as a commando and longs to return to the homeland.

I will call him and egoistic person who works only for his own interest, throwing overboard the interests of his compatriots. He will not be considered a patriot, but a fool devoid of the feeling of patriotism. None can be excused in this context, no matter whether he is a judge, an official, a writer or a poet, if he is guided by sense of self-interest in his actions. On the other hand, if a teacher grooms his students with discipline and etiquette and an intellectual writes a book to acquaint his country, they surely are patriots.

Patriotism, I believe, does not come through spontaneous thoughts; it oeeds orientation and enlightenment with the help of media services. The radio and television have a big role to play in instilling patriotism in the hearts of the people, and patriotic programs can help a great deal in making citizens feel they are a single unit in the country and are bound with each other hy strong boods of love and brotherhood.

Bani-Sadr asked to apologize

BEIRUT, Juoe 15 (AP) — In an obvious reference to Iran's beleaguered President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr, Ayatollah Khomeini said Monday he was sorry that opponents of the government have "dug their own graves. I now accept their repentance."

The 81-year-old Ayatollah said in a speech distributed by the official Pars News Agency: "I want them now to go to radio and television and announce their repentance and say that they have been wrong so far in inciting people to revolt." This was a clear reference to Bani-Sadr's statement last Friday in which the moderate, Western-educated president accused his clergy-led hardline political foes of staging a "step-by-step coup" to depose and kill him and called oo the people to "rise and resist before it is too late."

Although Khomeini did oot mention Bani-Sadr by name, there was no doubt that he was proposing a way out for Bani-Sadr from the current power struggle with the hardliners of the Islamic Republican Party who have moved in parliament to impeach the 47-year-old first elected president in Iran's history. Informed sources in Tehran said the 215memher Iranian parliament has scheduled a closed session for Tuesday to discuss a petition hy 120 deputies that accused Bani-Sadr of violating the constitutioo and wanted him declared incompetent. Pars said Khomeini made the speech during an audience he gave to a visiting group of clergymen for several provinces at his residence in northern Tehran. It said the Ayatollah referred to Iran's recent political unrest and to the opponents of Prime Minister Muhammad Ali Rajai's government and said: "I am sorry that

Kurds take five German hostage

VIENNA, June 15 (AP) — Five West German technicians last weekend were taken hostage hy Kurdish partisans of the Patriotic Union of Kurdistan (PUK) in northern Iraq, the Austrian News Agency APA reported

APA said it received a telephone call from Kurdish emigrant sources here and considered their report authentic. In return for the release of the hostages, the Kurds demanded an end of West German armament shipments to the Iraq, the punishment of those who last year intended to hlow up the West Berlin hall where Kurds held a congress, the pardoning of 27 Kurds facing a death sentence on Mossul and a payment of five million West (German marks to Kurds whose relatives were killed with the help of West German arms, the report said. It added that the five technicians — their names were oot mentioned- were taken bostage near Kirkuk in oorthern Iraq, predominanty inhabited by Kurds.

they have dug their own graves. I did not want this thing to happen this way. I now accept their repentance as Islam accepts repentance. I want them now to go on radio and television and announce their repentance and say that they have been wrong so far in inciting people to revolt. This has been wrong and contrary to Islam and the country's laws.

'They have heen wrong in forming an alliance with the hypocrites (Mujahedeen Khalq). I have several times told this gentleman (Bani-Sadr) to beware of those who have rallied around him as some of them are wnives that could destroy bim. He would not listen. It is not too late

Whether Bani-Sadr would agree to make a public repentance remains to be seen. The president has been staying at his presidential compound on Tehran's Palestine Street since he returned from the war froot with Iraq Thursday, a day after Khomeini fired him as commander-in-chief of the armed forces.

Khomeini lashed out publicly for the first time at the National Front, an opposition group of moderate politicians headed by former Foreign Minister Karim Sanjabi, The front, which includes former Prime Minister Mahdi Bazargan, has supported the president in his year-long struggle with the IRP, which is headed by Iran's chief justice Ayatollah Muhammad Hussein Beheshti. Khomeini described a National Front statement that urged the people to participate in the antigovernment demonstration later Monday as "The damage these people (National Froot leaders) have inflicted oo the Qur'an and Islam did oot even occur during the reign of Reza Khan and Muhammad Reza (the deposed Shah and his father)," Said Kho-

Chief government spokesman Behzad Nabavi told a press conference Monday that the government had had no contacts with i-Sadr in recent days.

Earlier Monday, Bazargan announced a partial boycott of the Majlis (oational assemhly) in protest against what he called insults, threats and a ban on opposition newspapers. The veteran nationalist politician, who headed Iran's first post-revolutionary government, signed a letter with two other deputies stating: "We herehy announced that uotil the insults, threats and illegal bans ceases, as a protest we will not attend Mailis sessions except those on the budget and the

The Majlis later adjourned without resuming discussion on moves to debate the competence of Bani-Sadr.

Begin threatens voters, says Shimon Peres

TELAVIV, June 15(R) - Israel's general election battle heated up Monday with charges that Prime Minister Menahem Begin was inciting the electorate, imposing war and cultivating a personality cult.

The charges were made by Shimon Peres, leader of Israel's opposition Labor Party, in an atmosphere of growing virulence, "What the prime minister is doing is clear incitement," Peres told a press conference. "He uses phrases that no prime minister ever used hefore. He wants to impose fear on the people so that whoever does not shout "Begin, Begin" is almost a terrorist and a traitor."

Peres was replying to government charges Sunday that Labor was spreading deliberately false propaganda and sabotaging Israeli diplomatic efforts concerning last week's air raid on the Iraqi nuclear reactor. "We will not allow the people to he cowed. We will oot allow Israeli democracy to become one-man rule with a cult of personality accompanied by slogan chanting.

Accompanying the polemics was an outburst of election rally violence which prompted Interior Minister Yosef Earg to issue at special order for the arrest of all violent

Zia assumes more powers to put down agitations

ISLAMABAD, June 15 (R) - Pakistan's President Gen. Zia-ul-Haq has given himself authority to jail, sack, demote or have whipped a civil servant or member of a government corporation involved, even indirectly in "agitational activity."

The oew martial law order, promulgated Sunday night, did not define agitation. But it is a term commonly used to cover any form of anti-government action or speech in Pakistan where political and trade union activities are banned.

The civil service in Pakistan was previously free from direct government interference and operated its own institutionalized checks and balances. Under Gen. Zia's new order, a civil servant can be sentenced to up to five years hard labor and five lashes if he is found guilty by a military court of agitational activity. There is no right of appeal.

U.S. officials visit Morocco

RABAT, June 15 (AP) — U.S. Undersec-retary of State Frank C. Carlucci and U.S. Undersecretary of Agriculture Thomas Hammer were in Morocco Monday to discuss diplomatie matters and further agricultural cooperation with their Moroccan counter-

"The point of our visit to Morocco is to learn," Carlucci told reporters after arriving here Sunday. "Morocco is both an Atlantic and a Mediterranean power, Your ideas on regional and national problems are enormous value to us."

Hammer, accompanied by a large delegation, will meet with Moroccan officials to strengthen ties between the two countries in agricultural cooperation and trade.

Iraqi killed in Israeli raid

PARIS, June 15 (R) - Frenchmen evacuated from the site of the Iraqi nuclear reactor outside Baghdad have said two persons died as a result of the Israeli attack on the site a week ago.

They said that apart from a French technician an Iraqi was killed by falling shrapnel from Iraqi anti-aircraft artillery fire. Seven Iragis were wounded. Four Frenchmen who were at the site of the Tammuz reactor during the raid were unburt, they said.

One of the heads of the French teams at the project said the reactor was destroyed but ave no further details.

Not in provisional agenda

OAU unlikely to rush through Sahara issue

NAIROBI, Juoe 15 (R) — The admission of the self-proclaimed Saharan Arab Democratic Republic as a memher of the Organization of African Unity (OAU) is not on the provisional agenda for the council of ministers meeting in Nairobi, OAU secretarygeneral Edem Kodjo said Monday.

The ministers will prepare an agenda for the OAU heads of state conference due to start in Nairobi Juoe 24. Answering questions at a news conference, Kodjo said: "This (the Western Sahara issue) is oot an easy questioo. We will have to strike an equilibrium." Morocco is opposed to the admission of the Saharan Republic set up by the Algerian-backed Polisario Front - which is fighting Rabat's forces for control of the former Spanish colony — to OAU membership. King Hassan of Morocco is expected to attend the summit to press his country's

The situation in Chad, also expected to figure prominently in the summit talks, had been under discussion by a small group of African leaders who met recently in Ndjamena Kodjo said. He said a meeting of OAU states, which was to have heen held in Freetown recently to discuss the Chad issue, could not take place because it was not convenient for all the heads of state to attend.

Asked if he was optimistic about proposals to establish an African peace-keeping force to serve in Chad, he said the Ndjamena meeting had recommended the setting up of a non-permanent military force. "It is vital that the Organization pays attention to this issue of intervention," Kodio said.

On decolonization, he said the summit would press for the independence of Namihia (South West Africa). It would discuss South African aggression against Angola and Mozambique in the same context. Asked about reported moves by Sudan to mediate between Ethiopia and Somalia in their longstanding border dispute, he said: "The OAU is deploying constant efforts to improve understanding between member states. A committee established last year to study the Ethiopia-Somalia problem will report to the heads of state." A border dispute between Nigeria and Cameroon was regarded as a difficult and sensitive issue, Kodjo said. Consultation would be held outside the conference to try to hring about an understanding, he

At last year's OAU summit in Freetown, Sierra Leone, African states supported a claim hy Mauritius for the return of the India Ocean islans of Diego Garcia, a British colony used as a base hy U.S. forces. Kodjosaid this question would oot be on the agenda unless Mauritius wanted the 1980 resolution to be re-asserted.

"It could be related to our general concern to make the Indian Ocean a zone of peace, I am sure this session will deal with this question very closely," he said.

French family attacks Turks; 1 dies

VERDUN, France, June 15 (AP) - Nine members of a French family, including four women, attacked a group of Turkish immigrant laborers with guns, rocks and clubs, killing one man and wounding two others in the village of La Meuse, police said Monday.

Police rushing to the scene were met by gunfire and has to call in a special strike force before Fernand Guillaume and his four sons and four daughters agreed to surrender. Officers said the family later told them they were retaliating against the Turks for making "improper gestures" at some of the daughters who had been sunbathing Sunday in the village, about 130 miles east of Paris. Several witnesses denied that such gestures were

Police said that Sunday night Guillanme, accompanied by his sons and daughters, all in their early 20s or teens, attacked five immigrant Turkish woodcutters with rocks and clubs as they were buying chickens at a local shop. One of the Turks retaliated, according to witnesses, throwing the family "into a veriatable fury," police said.

The Guillaumes left the shop, returned with rifles and opened fire, killing one man and wounding another. A third immigrant worker has been injured earlier by a blo from a cluh, police said. Police said the famil retreated to its house when special tactical police officers arrived at the scene. The family later agreed to surrender. Officers said the family had a reputation as "rowdy."

In recent years, there has been sporadic violence aimed at the estimated two million immigrant workers and their families living in France. The country's eight percent unemployment rate also has turned the immigrants into a political issue.

CONTRIBUTE TO PEACE!

The mission of the American special envoy to the region Philip Habib has foundered and may already have been doomed by the Israeli attack on the Iraqi nuclear research center in Baghdad last week. Habib has been doing his best and it is no reflection on his sincerity or abilities to say that the mission has failed, because failure had been built into it from the start.

He was dispatched to the region after Syria had installed defensive missiles in Lebanon with the knowledge and agreement of the Lebanese government to defend Syrian peacekeeping troops in that country from Israeli warplanes. Because the missiles might curtail Israel's wanton disregard of international laws — as was the case with the attack on Baghdad - Israel threatened to wipe them out by force. A war atmosphere developed and Habib was dispatched, to ease the

But the mission suffered from the extreme weakness of having been assigned the job of persuading Syria to withdraw the missiles and leave their troops and all of Lebanon exposed to Israel's bombs and rockets unlimited. Syria could not have possibly accepted such a demand and still retained its credibility at home and self-respect abroad.

Habib's terms of reference should have been simply to ask Israel to stop its attacks and overflights in Lebanon and Syria and the missiles would not be fired. They would not have been fired in the first place.

Withdraw the missiles and then what? Foreign Minister Prince Saud Al Faisal said on ABC television in America yesterday that the next thing would be for Israel to bomb our universities to prevent us from producing scholars and scientists who might someday contribute to the technological advancement of the Arab nation. If even defensive systems are considered a threat to Israel's security, then most things in the Arab world should be liquidated according to this lopsided

The U.S. would do better to stay Israel's hand from further outrages against the Arab world by means of American technology and weaponry. That would be a more substantial contribution to peace than the removal of the Syrian missiles.

BOOST FOR MITTERRAND

The results so far of last Sunday's French parliamentary elections give an encouraging indication to President Mitterrand's Socialists. Around one third of the 491 electoral districts gave out their final results. The remaining two thirds will go to the polls again next Sunday to determine their represen-

Observers have noted that the impressive Socialist advances have been made chiefly against the Communists, while the Gaullists have remained more or less in the same position. First results show a distinct possibility of an outright Socialist majority — though this can be confirmed only by next Sunday.

As in the presidential election, the main losers appear to be still the Communists, who are threatened with losing half of their parliamentary force, now standing at 86 members. The two wings of Gaullism, Giscardist and Chiracist, have registered only a slight retreat.

Last Sunday's round of the elections showed a surprisingly low polling rate, which means that the various parties will have their work cut out this week persuading the faithful to flock to the banner next Sunday. The rightists are doing their utmost to scare their electors to the polling stations by raising the danger of Socialist domination in both the Elysee and the National Assembly.

The left is telling its people that their presidential victory will lose significance unless there was a majority in the assembly to secure it. Within the left, the Communists are already beginning to accept the possibility of an outright Socialist majority - which means that they will lose the card they hold against Mitterrand, and will consequently have no representative in the coming Socialist cabinet.

U.S. leaks policy on South Africa

WASHINGTON -A series of top-level leaks from the State Department has finally clarified the Reagan administration's policy on South Africa. It does not bode well for a quick solution to the problem of Namibia's independence.

The Africa policy has never been much of a mystery. From the beginning, Reagan and his Secretary of State Alexander Haig, made enough noises about the strategie importance of South Africa to indicate they had no intention as Carter had done, of scolding Pretoria for its apartheid policies, nor of threatening economie sanctions if these policies were not seen to improve. Rather, they deliberately set out to raise the temperature of the cooled diplomatic relations between the two countries.

They also appeared determined to link any international solution to the independence of Namibia to the withdrawal of Cuban troops from Angola, and some form of "reconciliation" between the ruling Marxist Angolan government and the Western-backed nationalist guerrilla leader, Jonas Savimbi. Indeed, the man Reagan wants to head this policy, the designated assistant secretary of state for African affairs, Chester Crocker, has told senators that this will be the policy.

While Crocker's nomination has been held up by hardliners in the Senate, however, the administration has been coy in articulating its African policy. But two important leaks, one to the Washington Post and one to the New York Times, show that the policy line was well entrenched within three weeks of Reagan's inauguration. The special language used by Crocker in outlining the policy will no doubt cause the hardliners on the Hill to drop their doubts and Crocker can get on with his job. The language will also irk the prominent leaders of the black African states most involved in the Namibia settlement and also those trading with the U.S. such as Nigeria. Nigerian President Shehu Shagari, on a recent visit to Britain, warned the U.S. againt tilting its policy on Africa toward Pretoria. Nigeria is the second largest supplier of foreign oil to the U.S.

In particular, the Africans are expected to halk at the wording of the U.S. plan that calls for obtaining their backing for a "demand" from Angola to withdraw Cuba forces from its territory and "share power' with Savimbi before the U.S. somehow manages to persuade a reluctant South Africa to withdraw its own troops from Namibia and agree to open elections there.

An internal State Department memorandum of Feb. 7, drafted principally by Crocker, says the "African leaders would have no basis for resisting the Namibia-Angola linkage once they are made to realize that they can only get a Namibia settlement getting a settlement." This effectively reverses that Carter doctrine that had concentrated on obtaining independence for Namibia as a first step. Reagan is now insisting on an "Angola first" approach.

The other Western countries involved in the Namibian settlement, the so-called Gang of Five — Britain, France, West Germany and Canada, plus the U.S. are reportedly upset that the new policy was formulated without consultation. Nor are they pleased at Washington's apparent acceptance that it will take up to another 18 months before South Africa is ready to go ahead with Namibian elec-

The memorandum says South Africa and its white allies in Namibia "need 12 to 18 months, they believe, to get into a better position to complete with SWAPO" - the Angolan-based South-West Africa People's Organization that has continued to attack South African forces in Namibia.

The overall aim of the new U.S. doctrine, according to the second group of documents prepared by Crocker for the recent visit of the Foreign Minister, Roelof (Pik) Boina, is to "open a new chapter" in bilateral ties between the two countries. One of these papers suggested that if the South Africans cooperate on the Namibia settlement, the U.S. should reciprocate by working "to seek to restore South Africa's place in the world as a legitimate and important regional actor with whom we can cooperate pragmatically." Meanwhile, Al Jazirah played as a page one story Iraqi Foreign Minister Saadoun Hammadi's call on the U.N. The main topic of dicussion for newspaper editorials Monday was the King's visit to Spain and its impact on Euro-Arab relations. Al Medina praised age-old relations between the Arab and Islamic world and Spain, and added that Spain has always supported Arab and Islamic rights, with its various governments never failing to support right and justice despite all pressures and destructive activities the rulers had to face in friendly Spain. The paper added that, ever since an announcement was made about this visit, all Arab, Islamic and international circles have been anxiously awaiting its outcome, which will have its reflection on Spain's ties with the Arab and Islamie world.

Al Riyadh lauded Spain's distinctive role in Euro-Arab relations and said that it has been continuously striving to maintain its friendship with the Arab world. Despite all attempts by Zionist circles to spoil Spanish-Arab relations, the paper said, Spain continued to support Arab rights at the world forums - a matter that reinforced Spanish-Arab friendship. The paper hoped that the two sovereigns will concentrate on the development of joint actions in the interest of the two countries. The paper praised Spain's will and determination to elimiate factors of tension at the domestic level and to pursue a policy in tune with the principles of freedom and democracy.

Okaz also noted that Spain and the Arab world have been brought together through age-old relations which had influenced Europe and enriched its arts, sciences and literature. It hoped that summit talks between the two countries will review international issues and bilateral relations with a special emphasis: on aiding economic ties and cooperation by supporting Arab and Islamic issues as well as the causes of Third World.

Al Bilad described the Sandi-Spanish meeting as a practical interpretation of Arab efforts to boost relations which are based on historic ties. The leaderships of both Saudi Arabia and Spain have always exhibited a keen desire to develop bilateral ties in a practical and fruitful manner, said the paper, adding that the countries of Western Europe have been impressed by Saudi Arabia's role in supporting the issues of right and justice in the world. It is because of its pioneering role in boosting welfare and secunity for the peoples of the region that the Kingdom has been permanently targetted by world Zionism and communism, which have been trying to play a destructive role in the region, the paper added.
On the other hand, Al Nadwa commented on the U.S. emissary Philip Habib's Middle East mission, saying that the presence of the Syrian missiles on the plain of Bekaa in Lebanon does not create any crisis. Reiterating that those missiles have been installed for defensive purposes, the paper reasserted that Habib's mission is not only uncalled for but "aggressive" in the context in which both Washington and Tel Aviv are trying to project the matter. It insisted on the U.S. to exercise its pressure on Israel so that it capitulates to the wishes of the international community and implements the world body's resolutions. If Washington continues to remain biased toward Israel, it will be considered as an active partner in planning assaults, holding itself responsible for the consequences and possible complications, the paper added.

furious over raid on Iraq

The Egyptian government could not be more severely embarrassed than it has been by Israel's raid on Iraq's nuclear research center at Tammer Only a few days ago President Anwar Sadat and Israeli Prime Minister Menahem Begin were exchanging pleasantries at the southern Sinni resort of Sharm el Sheikh. At the meeting, Begin promised not to escalate tension in southern Lebanon "I suppose the Israelis can say they made no commitments to us about Iraq but what they have done is very serious and highly embarrassing for us," said a spokesman for the Egyptian Foreign Office. The Egyptians are annoyed not just because the attack came within days of the Sadat-Begin summit, but also because Cairo has, for several mouths, been slowly mending its feaces with Bagh.

Less than a month ago Sadat announced be was selling a second consignment of arms to Iraq and he praised the Iraqis for their help to Egypt during the last Middle East war. Egyptian officials say there had been hopes that diplomatic relations with Iraq, broken off by Baghdad when Egypt signed its peace treaty with Israel, might be restored by the end of the year. They now believe relations will be restored only if Cairo severs relations with Israel. Among Egyptian nuclear scientists, meanwhile, there is a growing conviction that the Israeli secret service was behind the murder in Paris last July of

Mao blamed for death of millions By Jonathan Mirsky

Chairman Mao's record as an economic leader's castigated in two recent assessments of his rule. One holds him responsible for the death of millions from starvation after the 1958 "Great Leap Forward" Another limits China's periods of economic success to the first years after the establishment of the People's Republic in 1949 and the "three years of readnt," ending with the Cultural Revolution i 1966.

These judgments consign to the scrap-heap more than half the lifespan of Communist rule in China and are a severe indictment of Maoism. The significance of the now-favored years 1964-66, "when the economy revived and developed relatively quickly," is that Mao's authority was in eclipse and national leadership lay in the hands of Lin Shaoqi and Deng Xiaoping, Mao's chief victims when he initiated the Cultural Revolution.

Deng and his allies have spent the four years of the re-emergence since the chairman's death in late 1976 grappling with how to build socialism in a poor country. Against veiled opposition from Mao loyalists, they have altered China's course from perpetual revolution to the present concentration of productivity.

Dengists maintain the un-Maoist view that certain economic laws are independent of politics. Now that socialism has been achieved, they say, China must adopt the management policies, investment, cost-accounting, and even employment practices which have brought relative success to the capitalist West. Since under socialism, exploitation is deemed no longer possible, even profit, "getting rich," and inequality are permissible.

One example of the attacks on Maoist dogma is the announcement by the State Council ordering communes to stop producing cigarettes, cotton goods and pharmaceuticals on the assumption that state-run factories can produce the same goods cheaper and better. Although cloaked in thetorical assurances that communal factories are indispensable, the orders make clear that rural industry must no longer develop on its own, a hall-mark of the Great Leap Forward in 1958, when even steel - of terrible quality, it emerges — was produced in backyard foundries.

The State Council's instructions will affect 30 million workers in commune-run factories, whose wages are higher than those of their comrades in the fields, and who produce more than a third of communal income. Instead, peasants are now urged by the Central Committee and the State Council to direct their energies to China's non-arable areas, to increase the production of industrial crops, forestry products, fisheries, and all side-line activities which generate a profit locally and do not threaten national efficiency.

Also out of favor is Mao's hallowed directive to concentrate on grain — but here the party needs to tread carefully. Last year saw a 15 million ton grain shortfall and tens of millions of peasants are facing starvation from flood and drought. In December last year, the People 's Daily was already drawing attention to serious food shortages. More recent publications have pinned such shortages not only on the weather but on egalitarianism — another Maoist ideal, which is now said "to bind the peasants hand and foot," and stifle competition.

Letter to the editor

Your editorial ton June 10, 1981 "Gangsterism", was highly inspiring to boost the morale of the Arab nation for unity which is the prime target of Israel's dastardly aggression. This Zionist aggressive expansionist policy can only be stopped through a united Arab stand. My kudos to your valuable editorial.

German show prepares way for exchange

By Iqbal S. Hussein

BONN, (INP) - Cultural rarities and artistic exhibits from Saudi Arabia were presented here during a recent exhibition. The exhibition comprising a large extent of items ranging from costumes, carpets and jewellery to musical instruments, old weapons and oil paintings was opened in the presence of several envoys, journalists, high officials and dignatories from various walks of life.

Dr. Kurt Muller, Head of the Cultural Division of the Foreign Office, speaking on the occasion paid rich tribute to the cultural heritage of Saudi Arabia which binds it not only with Islamic nations all over the world but also with the Europeans in the west. He hoped the exhibition would contribute toward cultivating cultural relations with the

Since the exhibition was arranged with an interesting range of items which drew the attention of the German and international audience, the event was evaluated to have paved the way for a series of cultural exchanges between the Federal Republic of Germany and Saudi Arabia.

Yusuf Mutabakani, Head of the Chancery at the Saudi Embassy in Bonn, underscored the significance of the exhibition by emphasizing that Islamic traditions are deeply rooted in the Saudi society. The exhibits presented in Bonn reflected the religious and cultural aspects of Muslim life

The exhibition contained paintings and photographs depicting panoramic views, historical monuments and archaeological antiquities of the Kingdom. Through a series of illustrations an attempt was made to provide an insight into some of the antiquities which date back to the beginnings of human settle-

Saudi Arabia, according to exhibition spokesmen, occupies a unique position as the heartland of the Islamic heritage. This heritage was underlined by presentations of important historical monuments. "Darb Zubaida," or "Pilgrim's Road" was highlighted as one of the most significant Islamic

The viewers were given an opportunity to have a look at the extent of bird life in the country. Color photographs and postcards were available to show a remarkable number of birds ranging from such common Euroan species as Starlings, Swallows, and Thrushes to the more exotic Ibis.

Housing program underway 8,000 units are occupied

DUBAI, - An over-all housing program which will provide every family in the United Arab Emirates (UAE) with modern housing and all necessities has been started by the UAE government.

More than 10,000 houses are already under construction in all emirates. Housing development is now underway in Abu Dhabi, Dubai, Sharjah, Riman, Umm Al Quwain, Ras Al Khaimah, Fujerra, Al Ain and Khor Fakkan.

UAE citizens living both in cities and in distant village areas already have received more than 8,000 housing units. Village settlements were provided with basic necessities like water, electricity, schools, mosques and roads which connect them to nearby main highways and cities.

Many remote areas have been changed by the UAE housing program. It was an unex-pected windfall for many villagers who received modern homes overnight, "It is the case of a dream coming true," said one enterprising old man. Villagers were provided with modern water facilities which enables them to conduct traditional cultivation activities on a small scale. In the past, the villagers used to draw water from wells, for both cultivation as well as drinking purposes, using traditional methods involving long hours of labor. Pumps are now used to provide water for irrigation while huge water tanks provide clean water for domestic use.

While the central government has taken steps to provide better housing facilities, His Highness Sheikh Rashid Bin Saeed Al Maktown, the UAE vice president and prime minister, has in his capacity as Ruler of Dubai, undertaken to provide each family in Dubai a new house and has begun massive low cost housing projects throughout the emirate similar to such projects undertaken on a national scale in the other emirates. Free houses are provided for people who applaud the generous attitude of their government in overcoming a basic need.

The houses are designed to especially suit the extreme climatic conditions and are built with the customs and traditions of the people in mind. Single story houses, located on lots measuring from 100x100 and 80x80 feet are covered on all four sides with parapet walls to ensure the privacy of each house. Within this unit, three separate structures have been built, a visitor's room, popularly called majlis, kitchen and the bed rooms. Units have two and three bed rooms available.

More than 10,000 new housing units are expected to be completed and handed over to the people before the end of this year. Similar plans are to be undertaken to ensure that every citizen is provided with a house. Under this plan, according to a spokesman for the Ministry of Public Works and Housing, almost every citizen will be provided with a new house within a couple of years.

Unilateral restraint assured

Soviets shift stance on nuclear missiles

MOSCOW, June 15 (AP) - A senior Soviet official has indicated that the Soviet Union is prepared to show "unilateral restraint" on the stationing of nuclear missiles in Europe if the United States resumes negotiations on the weapons.

Former U.S. Secretary of State Cyrus Vance, here for an international forum on disarmament, said Sunday the proposal appeared to indicate a shift in the conditions under which the Kremlin would negotiate on European missiles.

Georgy Arbatov, a leading Communist Party member and another member of the forum, suggested that, with the start of talks, the Kremlin would not deploy additional medium-range nuclear missiles in Europe

Arbatov also said at a news conference that his country would not insist the United States stop producing similar weapons of its own, for possible deployment later.
In 1983, the United States plans to begin deployment 572 new medium-range nuclear missiles in West Europe, targetable on the Soviet Union. U.S. officials say the missiles will help offset an estimated 200 Soviet missiles already in place.

The statements by Vance and Arbatov gave "a new gloss" to a February proposal by Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev for both sides to freeze deployment and "all preparations" for the deployment of such missiles.

Brezhnev's offer was rejected by the Reagan administration and its NATO partners on the grounds that the Soviets already had missiles in place and the West needed to continue research and development.

When I read the (Brezhnev) language originally, it seemed to me that what was being said was that a condition was being placed on the moratorium, and that it was not a unilateral moratorium on the part of the

U.N.chief leaves China

PEKING, June 15 (R) — United Nations Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim left Peking for New York Monday after what aides described as a successful visit in which he reviewed world trouble spots with Chinese leaders. Waldheim concluded his visit, his first here for two years, with talks lasting more than one hour with Premier Zhao Ziyang who reaffirmed China's support for the world organization, a U.N. spokesman

The spokesman said the Issue of Waldheim's seeking an unprecedented third five-year term as secretary-general was not raised in his talks here. China opposed Waldheim's election in 1971 and re-election in 1976. It is said to favor someone from Asia, Africa or Latin America.

Soviet Union," Vance told reporters Sunday, "Arbatov today put a gloss on that, which is, I think, quite different ... The gloss was that it was a unilateral statement on their part that they were prepared to halt (deploying missiles in Europe) and the further gloss was that the words applied not to research and development but only to deployment, and that's quite a big difference." Arbatov characterized his proposal to reporters as a restatement of what Brezhnev told the 26th Soviet Communist Party congress last Feb. 23. "I can only repeat once again that the (Brezhnev) proposal was made not just to establish a balance in Europe but as a step to make for easier negotiations and starting negotiations immediately." said Arbatov, who is also director of Moscow's Institute of the U.S. and Canada.

Under the proposal set forth by Arbatov on Sunday, the Soviet Union would still enjoy the same numerical advantage on mediumrange nuclear missiles in Europe that it has now. But the Kremlin's advantage would not grow through 1983.

Mother sacked for second baby

PEKING, June 15 (R) - A senior Chinese official in a northern commune who was in charge of making sure each couple had only one child, has been sacked for having a second baby herself, a newspaper reported.

Saturday's Tianin daily, available in Peking Sunday said Mrs. Zan Yongfen's behavior had sabotaged the birth control campaign and had an extremely bad influence on the commune, where nearly 100 extra babies had been born without permission as a result of her example.

China, the world's most populous nation with almost one billion people, is trying to restrict births to one per couple in an attempt to stabilize the total at 1.2 billion by the year 2000. A rigid system has been introduced throughout most of the country under which couples must apply for permission to give birth.

Mrs. Zang was vice chairman of the Zhangwo commune's management committee and in charge of birth control there. Her firstborn had been a girl and, in the tradition of Chinese peasants, she apparently felt it imperative to try for a son despite the-campaign she herself was conducting.

After her second child was born and the authorities discovered her deception, Mrs. Zang was sacked from all her posts and the case was publicized as a warning to others.

Violence erupts in S. Āfrican township

IOHANNESBURG, South Africa, June 15 (AP) - Blacks stoned two buses and set them on fire Monday on the eve of the fifth anniversary of the Soweto riots that left an estimated 600 persons dead around the country, the South African Press Association (SAPA) reported.

A police spokesman said no one was hurt in the incident in the Evaton township outside Verceniging, 64 kms south of Johannesburg. The bus passengers, who were black, said they were ordered out of the buses and told not to go to work to observe a period of mourning. The buses were subsequently stoned and set on fire, the passengers said.

Police arrived shortly thereafter and helped put out the fires. SAPA said most of the workers went to work using other transport. There has been no indication yet of any widespread work boycott in connection with the anniversary. And it was business as usual in Soweto, the sprawling township of more than 1.5 million blacks outside Johannes-burg, SAPA said. Police patrolling the townsbip and roadblocks were set up, SAPA

Some militant blacks have been trying to organize a job boycott by the 20-million black majority to mourn the deaths in the riots. The disturbances began June 16, 1976, in Soweto with a student protest over com-pulsory use of the Afrikaans language in black schools. The violence eventually spread throughout the country.

Afrikaans is the language of the Dutchdescended whites who settled in South Africa in the 17th century. These people, called Atrikaners, make up 58 percent of the white population of some five million and dominate the white-minority government.

Lee is the first ASEAN leader to visit the United States since the Republicans took office. Lesser officials have exchanged views with the administration, including Singapore's Deputy Prime Minister Sinnathamby Rajaratnam and Thailand's Foreign Minister Air Marshal Sithi Sawetasila.

To teach a lesson

Red Brigades repentant's brother kidnapped

ROME, June 15 (AP) — The kidnapping of a young electrician by the Red Brigades has struck a hard hlow at a group of Italians with a price on their heads — the so-called "repentants" who have turned against their former guerrilla comrades.

They are the most guarded prisoners in Italian jails, the objects of insults and death threats when they arrive in court to testify from bullet-proof witness stands against other gang members.

Unable to penetrate the jail security, the Red Brigades have instead grabhed the 25year-old brother of the most despised of the group of repentants, Patrizio Peci, whose testimony has led to the arrests of 60 members of the gang. Roberto Peci was abducted last Wednesday night while returning to his home near Turin and the Red Brigades have said they will put him on "trial" as a lesson to his 'infamous' brother.

Patrizio Peci, 28, along with five other former members of the Red Brigades and its ideological ally Front Line have helped police to finally make major advances in their decade-long battle against violence. In return for their collaboration, a law passed last year allows a cut of up to two-thirds of their jail

A former waiter, Peci confessed after his capture in February 1980 to have taken part in 16 attacks and shootings with the Piedmont cell of the Red Brigades. Newspapers report that Peci will probably be pardoned and given a false identity in another country. but in the meantime he lives in fear for his life. An entire prison wing has been set apart for him and to guard against poisoning attempts the prison staff first taste his meals. "They say I'm a traitor," the neatly dressed chain-smoking Peci told reporters when he showed up to testify at the start of the trial, "but this is not true. I spent six years with the Red Brigades, but today I recognize the polit-

Troops on alert

U.K.ambulance staff to check hike threaten 1-day strike in gold price

LONDON, June 15 (R) — Troops are on alert in Britain ready to take over emergency services during strikes planned by ambulance workers this week.

National union leaders representing Britain's ambulance workers have called an official one-day strike Wednesday, instructing the crews to provide emergency cover. But militant union leaders in London, angry at the government's refusal to increase a pay offer of six percent have said they will strike and not answer emergency calls.

Last week, crews in Scotland staged lightning strikes without emergency cover and they say they will not answer emergencies during Wednesday's strike either.

The government, already unmoved hy widespread industrial action by civil servants. has said it hopes troops will not be needed but it will not hesitate to back np voluntary workers and police if they are unable to cope with emergencies. Ambulance men have been caught by the same anti-inflation curbs on public wage increases as the civil servants.

Their leaders have rejected the government's offer of a six percent increase now or 7.5 percent over 15 months and said they want to be classified with the police and fire brigade — who earn higher basic wages — as an emergency service.

The nine civil service unions representing some haif million public employees have disrupted airports, passport and tax offices, social welfare payments and defense bases over the last 14 weeks in their campaign for a 15 percent pay rise.

British Airways said Friday the dispute had cost it at least £20 million ($40 million). But as the prospect grows that the unions could be finding it increasingly costly to carry through its stoppages, the government has hardened its attitude over its seven percent pay offer.

Last week, 1,000 workers were suspended for refusing to handle state welfare checks. And about 20 of the honor's that would normally have been due to civil servants in a list marking Queen Elizabeth's official birthday were withheld. Although the civil servants' campaign has not won much public sympathy, some opposition members in parliament have reacted angrily latter move, calling it a manipulation of the

BASEL, June 15 (R) — The Bank for Interatnional Settlements (BIS) Monday urged governments to cut back budget deficits to help fight inflation and appealed to them to refrain from acting selfishly in their economic policies. Writing in the final chapter of the bank's annual report, General Manager Guenther Schleiminger said international cooperation was the most effective bulwark against another collapse of the world economy as in "The Western world is already paying a high price for having tolerated too high an inflation rate for too long," he said. "If, in the present decisive phase, confidence in the effectiveness of international cooperation were to be shaken, the price would be greater

He criticized U.S. monetary control techniques because the resulting volatility in interest rates led to wide fluctuations of the dollar on exchange markets. This caused concern in many European countries heavily dependent on foreign trade, he said. The BIS provides banking services for central banks and is a forum for montly meetings of central hank governors.

Western governments were right to have given priority to heating inflation in the past year, "but they were less well advised to rely chiefly, if not exclusively, on monetary policy," the B LS general manager wrote. Since prices and incomes reacted slowly to restrictive monetary policy, there was a risk underemployment would persist too long, making the social and political implications intolerable. This could lead to premature ahandonment of anti-inflationary initiatives, which he said would be a setback of incalculable prop-

Present... large budget deficits and a curb on the money supply led to a steep rise in interest rates, slowing the investment needed to ensure future economic growth, reabsorb unemployment and adjust to oil price

"For this reason, it is urgently necessary to alter the current policy mix by reducing public sector borrowing requirements," he concluded. The B I-S report itself said a number of developed countries reacted better to the sharp increase in oil prices of 1979/80 than they did to the first oil price shock of 1974/75. The report said the recycling of surplus funds by members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC) countries as a result of the price rises of 1979-80 had been easier than expected. This was hecause the corresponding balance of payment deficits had been concentrated largely on wealthy countries with low inflation such as West Germany, which could borrow relatively easily on international capital markets.

teral bank governor has said the bank would intervene if necessary to prevent what he called artificial increases in the price of gold in the Tehran bazaar which is the center of trade in precious metals.

Mohsen Nourbakhsh, named governor last week after the resignation of Ali Reza Nobari, said in an interview with state radio: "I declare that the central bank will intervene in the bazaar if necessary." He said the bank would offer gold to the bazaar to prevent further gold price increases.

"We have enough foreign exchange in store and we can control gold prices by offering gold to the bazaar," he said. The price of the Azadi gold sovereign, one of two gold coins traded in the bazaar, rose 23 percent over two days last week. The increase followed the resignation of Nobari and street clashes over the future of President Abolhassan Bani-

Its sharpest increase — a jump of 6,000 rials ($75) in one day - occurred on Wed-

Paris air show comes to an end

PARIS, June 15 (AP) - Ten days of power dives and public relations ended Sunday with the close of the 34th Paris air show - the world's oldest and most prestigious exhibition of high-powered planes, aviation technology, gadgets and display flying.

The show, held once every two years, has a history of spectacular accidents, the most dramatic of which was the crash of a Soviet supersonie jetliner in 1973. However, tight new safety rules, including a 500-foot (152 meter) limit on low-altitude flying, prevented any major accidents at Le Bourget airfield, outside Paris, for the second show in a row.

The only mishap was more of an embarrassment. The pilot of a West German-French-built Transall C-160 Turboprop made a perfect landing, but the pilot forgot to lower his landing gear. He was not injured.

The only casualty related to the show occurred somewhere over the Altantic when the crew of a single-engine Piper Commanche participating in the Paris-New York-Paris air race disappeared earlier this week. No trace of the plane or the crew -Frenchmen Jacques Masserot and Olivier Recoing — had been found by Sunday. The big winner in the race was a twin-engine Piper Navaho flown hy an Australian-born businessman Wem Bermuda whose only navigation instrument was a World War II Sextant. Boyd Munro Andneo-Pilot Russ Hancock of the U.S. completed the two-way crossing in the shortest time and also won the performance

Limiting car exports

BRUSSELS, June 15 (R) - Japan's handling of the crisis over its soaring car exports to the European Economic Community has dented the prestige of the EEC Commission and shown clear limits to the unity of Europe's Common Market, according to EEC sources.

"The commission hasn't a scrap of ammunition left," a British diplomat commented following the disclosure last week of Japan's intention to limit its car exports this year to West Germany, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg.

The Japanese moves, revealed just before visits here this week hy Prime Minister Zenko Suzuki and Industry Minister Rokusuke Tanaka, dealt a severe hlow to the commission's aim of negotiating an EEC-level accord on Japan's car exports.

They effectively left the commission stranded in its role as coordinator of EEC trade policy, with no memher states left to defend. If the Benelux countries accept an offer to be made by Tanaka, only Ireland, Greece and Denmark, none of which has a car industry, will be without any arrangement limiting Japanese car sales.

Member states, hy entering into bilateral deals, will effectively have undermined the commission, which they had asked to negotiate on their behalf with the Japanese. The commission proposes and implements EEC policy. In its efforts to promote European unity, it has frequently heen baulked by community ministers representing the interests of memher states.

made last November saying that any Japanese measures should "apply to the European community as a whole and not only to certain markets.

The November statement mandated the commission to negotiate with Japan on behalf of the community, apparently endorsing the commission's view that soaring Japanese exports affected industries in all EEC member states, and should, therefore, he dealt with on the European level. But, in practice, member states have done little to facilitate EEC-level negotiations.

France, Britain and Italy have all declined to budge from bilateral arrangements with Tokyo. Now, West Germany has also reached a bilateral arrangement with Tokyo, to which the commission reacted angrily last week, saying it had undermined EEC unity.

The offer to be made to the Benelux countries this week was again secured through bilateral negotiations. "There has been no common market as far as cars are concerned in Europe, so how could we pretend that there was," a Japanese spokesman here said. Because member states have adopted differing policies on cars toward the Japanese, Tokyo has consistently said that the EEC market was not a uniform one, and that an accord with the community was, therefore, impossible.

Apparently acknowledging that the commission's protracted negotiations with Japan had run out of steam, its chief trade negotiator, Sir Roy Denman, said recently that talks this month with the Japanese had amounted to "pretty near zero." Officials insist, however, that the commission will continue its efforts to get Japan to treat the community as a single trading bloc.

A commission document that would probalily go before EEC foreign ministers at a meeting in Luxembourg later this month proposed the phasing out of national restrictions, opening the way for EEC measures, they said. It also suggested the possibility of imposing quota restrictions on imports if the Japanese refused to agree to some kind of

"But given the latest developments, one must ask how realistic all this is," one official They suggested that the ministers would statement on the EEC as a whole, they said.

concentrate on the fact that there had been no move from Japan to-stimulate its imports from the EEC, a demand made in three EEC statements since November. But diplomats privately acknowledge that EEC moves on Japan have been overtaken by events. The community, as a block, has not got anywhere in its negotiations with Japan because it has not been able to present a united front," a British diplomat said. Diplomatic sources said there was no indication Japan would deal with the commission rather than member states in other sensitive sectors such as TV tubes and electronic goods. Japanese sources said Tokyo had concluded hilateral deals with some member states because the possible alternative quota restrictions — would have been worse. They reiterated Tokyo's view that the main reason for the community's $11 hillion trade deficit with Japan last year was the failure of EEC industries to be competitive.

The commission too has stressed the need for EEC industries to restructure in order to compete with Japan. But, in another illustration of the lack of EEC unity, its pleas for common market industries to pool resources in order to modernize more effectively have so far been largely ignored by member states.

Plunge in output ruled out

IA report on Soviet oil disputed

WASHINGTON, June 15 (R) — A Congressional study released criticized the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency's (CIA) projection of Soviet of supplies as too pessimistic.

In their study, specialists on Soviet energy policy took aim at a recently revised CIA estimate that the Soviet Union would move from an oil exporter to an oil importer by "Soviet oil output growth may slow down. level off, or moderately fall, but a sharp fall from over 12 million barrels per day to eight million a day, in our judgment, seems to be an unduly pessimistic projection for 1990," the report said.

John Hardt, senior specialist in Soviet economics at the Library of Congress, led the team of international experts who issued the report released by the joint Congressional Economic Committee. The CIA created a sensation with a 1977 analysis and subsequent reports saying Soviet oil production would plummet by 1985. But earlier this year, it revised its forecast that production would drop to eight million barrels a day by 1985, saying production that year would be between 10 and 11 million barrels a day and in 1990 would be eight million barrels a day. Nevertheless, the study said the CIA projection was considered among the pessimistic outlooks, noting that the economic commission for Europe had forecast production would stay constant or evern increase to 14 million barrels a day by 1990. The Soviet Union keeps production figures secret, but says officially that production will be increasing by 1985 The study noted, bowever, that even Soviet experts were uncertain and said a leveling off followed by a sharp fall in Soviet output by 1985 was more a possibility than a likelihood.

The specialists said there was reason to believe that if all options available to the put, "a short-term slowdown may be fol-lowed by improved growth rates in oil output after 1985."

The report said a Soviet oil shortage could affect political events in Eastern Europe and cause world oil prices to rise, but added that the Soviet Union could gain an important diplomatic tool if it continued to expand natural gas exports.

. The study noted that the Soviet Union needed Western technology to develop its multi-billion-dollar Yamal gas pipeline project, but could get most of its supplies ontside the United States. Congressman Gillis Long, a Louisiana Democrat and chairman of an economic subcommittee, said in a separatestatement he was concerned about the economie and political implications of funding the pipeline from western Siberia to

Last week, President Reagan was asked by Utah Senator Jake Garn and two other Republican Congressmen to take immediate action to halt U.S. participation in the project, saying it could lead to the 'Finlandisation' of Western Europe.

The pipeline, due for completion in 1985 or 1987, would carry gas across Eastern Europe and hook up with West European pipelines to deliver about 1,500 billion cubic feet of gas a year.

U.S. bank cuts prime rate to 19%

NEW YORK, June 15 (AP) - Chemical Bank, one of major U.S. banks, cut its prime lending a full percentage point to 19 percent Monday amid predictions of a quick decline in interest rates.

Before Monday, only one major bank, Marine Midland, was charging 19.5 percent, with other banks charging 20 pecent, Expectations of a widespread decline in interest rates helped to force the dollar lower in early foreign exchange trading against all major currencies.

The reduction followed the report late Friday by the Federal Reserve Board that the nation's money supply dropped sharply in the latest reporting week. Many economists bad expected an increase, and the decline could indicate the economy is slowing.

"With a slackening economy, we could begin to see a sustained decline in interest rates," said Harold Nathan, an economist at Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust. In Chicago. "I think it's the beginning of a trend that will carry the prime rate several points lower by the end of summer," said Jeffrey Leeds, an economist at Chemical Bank.

The prime rate is the base rate charged by banks on loans to commercial and industrial borrowers. Some companies are able to negotiate better rates, but many others pay rates higher than the prime. The rate peaked last December at 21.5 percent before declining to 17 percent in April. It rose as high as 20.5 percent last month before again turning

Dollar sags; gold moves up

JEDDAH, June 15 - The dollar opened weak Monday morning against most major currencies, while gold prices went up to $473 levels. Local riyal deposit rates eased further by another ½ to one percent in all tenors, continuing Sunday's trend.

Local dealers reported some moderate activity Monday on both the deposit as well as exchange market, but the general mood was one of "cautions expectations" on the immediate future of dollar deposit rates. These fell Monday, precipitating the dollar's easing on the exchange markets, and dealers expect the dollar to fall further unless clear signals are obtained from New York on Monday night from the Federal Reserve Board on the direction of U.S. dolar interest rates.

After falling to a new low level of 5.74 against the dollar, the French frane surprised the markets by recovering to levels of 5.65 levels by mid-afternoon. It would seem that the financial markets seem to think that Socialist overall victory is now possible in the French national assembly elections and that this is preferable to one whereby the Socialist majority is not sufficient enough and thus the Socialists would depend on the Communist members to get reforms through. It would be interesting to see if the francean maintain its strength over the next few days or if the markets will have second thoughts on the political aspects.

The German mark improved against the dollar to levels of 2.3600 from opening levels of 2.3765. The yen was relatively more stable at 221.00 levels (from 222.00), but the other dramatic rise against the dol lar was registered by the pound sterling which rose by more than three cents to levels of 1.9880 from 1.9660 opening levels. It was only 10 days ago that the pound was trading at levels of 1.93 levels. On the local exchanges, spot riyal against the dollar was quoted at 3.3985 - 95 on opening, but dealers reported some activity by mid-day which took rates up to 3.3995 05 indicating some demand for the dollar. Most transactions, however, were for commercial needs as importers still took advantage of the Kingdom's fixed rate parity policy to purchase other currency needs On the local rival deposit front, rates eased by mid-afternoon in sympathy with dollar deposit rates. One-month JIBOR rates were quoted at 16 1/2 — 17 percent in the morning but gradually fell to 15 % - 16 % percent by late afternoon. There were marked drops in short term. Riyal rates with one week fixed coming at 15 percent a one percent drop over Sunday levels. The long-term rival deposit rates did not change much and were stable at 15 % - 15 % percent. Little activity was reported, however, in these long tenors and dealers reported some liquidity injections which also helped to keep rates down.

Energy outlook uncertain, IEA says

PARIS, June 15 (AFP) - Energy ministers of the West and Japan were expected Monday to warn oil consuming nations the energy outlook remains basically uncertain and that there is no room for relaxing efforts to make them less dependent on imported

These points were emphasized by most speakers as the 21-nation International Energy Agency began day-long ministerial talks here against the background of a growing oversupply of crude on the world market and an apparent easing of oil prices.

Making his "debut" at an IEA meeting, James Edwards, the new U.S. energy secretary, stressed the importance of IEA cooperation and said it was important to the vital interests of the United States to stand by its Edwards gave his colleagues a first-hand ran-down of the energy policy of the new Reagan administration, stressing the direct link with general economic policy.

Accompanying Edwards was U.S. Deputy Secretary of State William P. Clark who described the IEA as a "cornerstone of U.S. international energy, policy". He also stressed that IEA countries were getting their oil from various areas of the world where potential problems could arise "at any time Japan's Minister for International Trade and Industry, Rokusuke Tanaka, took up this point, stressing the volatility of the Middle East situation and efforts by oil producing countries to adjust their production so as to preserve their resources

Enroe snatches Artois title

LONDON, June 15 (AP) - John McEnroe edged Brian Gottfried 7-6, 7-5 Sunday and won the Stella Artois Grass Courts Tennis Tournament for the third straight year.

With Wimbledon starting a week Monday, McEnroe was pleased with himself. "I always like going into Wimbledon with this title under my belt," be said. "I have played the big points well throughout the week, and that help my confidence."

McEnroe won a first prize $20,000 but collected a public warning after some differences of opinion with the umpire, Georgina Clark. After serving a double fault in the second set he shouted at a woman line judge 'good ball, lady," and slammed a ball into the canvas about a yard to one side of her.
Clark said: "McEnroe, I am giving you a warning for unsportsmanlike behavior."

'Why is it unsportsmanlike?" McEnroe retorted. "Because I used the word lady in : your presence?"

The American left-hander, runner-up to Bjorn Borg at Wimbledon last year, said be plans three or four days of bard practice and then will take it easy as Wimbledon spproaches.

For the first 25 minutes the two men slammed cannonhall serves at each other and showed bow grim and relentless tennis can he

They were deadlocked at four games all, without a single point scored against service. In that period only six services were returned into court.

Gottfried broke the spell in the ninth game with two short service returns that trapped McEnroe into volleying errors. But McEnroe recovered to hold bis service, and they battled on to 6-6 and a tiebreaker.

Gottfried led by six points to three in the tiebreaker and had three set points. At that point McEnroe got involved in an argument with the umpire over the places linesman should take up around the court.

Clark moved one linesman from one end of the court to the other, but McEnroe prolonged the scene. "Will you explain the rationale of that?" he shouted to the linesman. The linesman took no notice. Gottfried broke hack at 3-3. He went to a 5-4 lead on service and in the next game had two set points. McEnroe saved both.

Gottfried had a low backhand across the court. McEnroe swung his racket as the ball, half hit it and it flew of the wood of his racket high in the air. Instead Of smashing, Gottfried waited for the ball to bounce and then hit a weak forehand into the net. That was the end of Gottfried's chances

Donna Caponi edges out Britz, Meyers

MASON, Ohio, June 15 (AP) - Donna Caponi rolled in a 15-foot birdie putt on the final green Sunday to win her second Ladies Professional Golf Association Championship in the last three years.

Caponi and playing partners Jerilyn Britz and Pat Meyers went to the final hole deadlocked at 7-under-par for the 71 holes they had played in this, the first of three majors for the women this year.

Caponi laid up short of the lake and hit ber approach shot within 15 feet of the pin. She then rolled in the deciding putt for a 1-over-par 73 and a 72-hole total of 280, 8 under par in the tournament over the Jack Nicklaus Sports Center Grizzly course.

Britz, who also finished second to Caponi in the 1979 LPGA, missed her opportunity for a birdie from 12 feet that would have forced a sudden-death playoff. She left her putt short and to the left of the hole for a 72 and a second-place tie with Meyers.

Meyers missed the green with her third shot, chipped to within four feet and sank the putt to salvage a par 5 on the closing 470-yard hole. She had a 71 and matched Britz's total Caponi, winning her fourth major title in poni survived a pair of bogeys at 15 and 17 that cost her the sole lead in the muggy, 95-degree heat. On 17, she injured herself, but survived it to win her 22nd career tour-

"I hurt my ribcage on the 17th hole in the beavy rough I was in," she said at the posttournament ceremonies. Caponi left her approach shot 40 feet short of the green, swinging from the rough.

A crying Caponi, in the midst of divorce proceedings from Ken Young, told the buge gallery surrounding the 18th green, "you can't win enough majors. They are the most important thing in the world." Caponi, 36, cartier bad won the U.S. Open in 1969 and 1970 before she won this major twice.

Caponi started the day with a two-shot lead over Meyers but lost it with back-to-hack bogeys at 6 and 7. Meyers, meanwhile, picked up four shots and assumed sole control of the lead with birdies on the same holes.

Caponi and Meyers either shared or owned the lead until Britz, the 1979 U.S. Open winner, moved in to a three-way tie at 17. Britz parred the 385-yard, par 4 hole, while her playing partners both had bogeys.

Antuofermo files plea against ref

BOSTON, June 15 (AFP) - Italian-born New Yorker Vito Antuofermo, who failed to last more than four rounds against Marvin Hagler in a fight for the undisputed world middleweight title Saturday night, has filed a complaint against the referee for not declaring a draw after two rounds.

Tony Carione, the fighter's manager, lodged the complaint with both the World Boxing Council and World Boxing Association Sunday because he said the referee had allowed the champion to butt open a cut over Antuofermo's eye with bis head in the opening round.

Referee Davey Pearl, however, said Antuofermo caused his own cut in the first round when he accidentally knocked beads with the champion.

The local papers, meanwhile, gleeful over the victory of the Bostonian, Hagler, have meanly suggested that Antuofermo should consider "joining the red cross" to boost its blood-donating campaigns.

The fight was almost called off after an argument over the use by Antuofermo's corner of a coagulating substance to treat the New Yorker's fragile eyehrows. Hagler eventually agreed to the challenger's demands.

In Tokyo, James Callaghan, a Japaneseborn British boxer who surprised local boxing fans by capturing the Japanese national middleweight boxing championship last year, Monday returned the crown to the Japan Boxing Commission for bealth reasons, the commission said. The commission offered no other details, however.

Caliaghan won the Japanese title by knocking out champion Dynamite Matsuo in the eighth round of a scheduled 10-round title match in Yokohama on Jan. 9 last year. He successfully defended the title in April with an eighth-round knockout.

Meanwhile, World Boxing Commission flyweight champion Natoinal Avelear of Mexico will stake his title against South Korean Kim Tae-Shik in Seoul on August 9, the Korean Boxing Commission (KBC) said. But Kim's manager said that the bout might be put off since Kim just suffered a left-hand injury during training. The match was arranged by a Japanese promoter and approved by the WBC, the KBC added. It will be Avelar's first defense since winning the title from Shoji Oguma of Japan last. month. Kim, 24, lost his World Boxing Association flyweight title to Peter Matebula of South Africa last December.

Cubillas nets winner for Strikers

VANCOUVER, British Columbia, June 15(AP) - A first-half goal by Teofilo Cubillas and spectacular goalkeeping by Dutch international Jan van Beveren gave the Fort Lauderdale Strikers a 1-0 North American Soccer League victory over the Vancouver Whitecaps Sunday night.

The victory before 23,051 fans also capped a homecoming for Strikers coach Eckhard Krautzun, who was coach of the Whitecaps in 1976 and 1977.

The Whitecaps dominated play throughout only to miss several good scoring opportunities or have Van Beveren beat them with his lighting reflexes. Vancouver still leads the Northwest Divisioo by two points over the Seattle Sounders and Fort Landerdale moved into second place in the Southern Division 15 points behind the Atlanta Chiefs.

In East Rutherford, Roberto Cabanas scored two goals and Vladislav Bogicevie added three assists as the Cosmos edged the Toronto Blizzard 4-3.

Cabanas' second goal of the match, his 11th of the season, came at 62:28 on assists from Bogicevie and Giorgio Chinaglia and provided the Cosmos, now 13-4, with their margin of victory. The Cosmos, who have now won four in a row, opened the scoring at 29:32 when Chico Borja headed in a corner kick from Bogicevic, Toronto, now 4-11, came back to register the next two goals and assume a 2-1 lead at halftime. The first tally was accidentially kicked in by Cosmos defender Bob Iarusci at 37:20 while the second was scored by Gianpaolo Boniperti at 42:10 with Alex Cropley and Randy Regan assisting.

Cabanas tied the score at 2-2 when he scored on a header at 50:34 with Borja and Francois Van Der Elst providing assists. Van Der Elst then made it 3-2 at 56:03 when he volleyed in a shot after receiving assists from Bogicevie and Cabanas.

Good bidding gets you to the best contract a very high percentage of the time. Every bid you make sends partner a message, and your partner usually replies in kind. And so, you each gradually learn approximately what the other has.Eventually, one of you chooses the final contract.

For example, when South bids one heart, he announces the values for an opening bid that probably contains from 12 to 21 high-card points. North's raise to two hearts is much usually 6 to 9 points.

Two spades announces values above a minimum bid, since otherwise South would gests that spades might serve better as the trump suit than hearts. Three spades guarantees at least four trumps and willingness to go on to game in either suit, and four spades closes the auction. There is one great big disadvantage to these exchanges of information. As the players of defense. West took advantage of the North-South bidding and found the killing opening lead. He led the ace and another heart, and later gave East a heart

ruff to put the contract down

West reasoned that his opponents were bound to have at least eight hearts between them for the opening heart bid and the immediate raise. This in turn indicated that East had either one heart or two hearts, and that he could sooner or later trump a heart.

Had South adopted a less scientific approach to the bidding and jumped directly to four hearts over two, there would have been no way to stop him from making the con-

Republic of China. Haig met Foreigo Minister Huang Hua for a second round of talks oo bilateral and international affairs. He discussed economics, technical cooperation and Sino-U.S. trade with Vice Premier Bo Yibo. He met Defense Minister Geng Biao to "exchange views oo defense matters," a senior State Department

State Department officials later declined to discuss the substance of Haig's talks, saying it would be inappropriate to comment before the visit ends Wednesday. One official later told reporters, "we characterize everything as very friendly and the atmosphere as good."

In an unusual three hour, and 45 minute meeting, Haig and Huang discussed bilateral relations, but senior officials declined to say if the sensitive issue of Taipei was discussed. He said there was "a great deal of agreement" oo ioternational issues, but declined to say if there was agreement on Sino-U.S. relations.

China has been wary of the administration of U.S. President Ronald Reagan and of Reagan's long history of support for Taipei and his campaign statements about upgrading relations with the island. China is especially incensed about U.S. arms sales to the

The prime minister-designate, a former university professor and journalist who entered politics less than ten years ago, soon becoming secretary-general of the tiny Republican Party — 3.8 percent of the electorate at the last polls - met President Sandro Pertini and representatives of the trade unions and the employers' associatioo Confindustria Mooday.

He worked out a government program Sunday with senior party leaders, based on four key points: inflation, cleaning up public life after the P-2 Masonic lodge scandal, visit China promised a strong but unspecified response if sales cootioue.

Haig canceled a visit to the old imperial city to contioue his talks with Huang Hua in the morning at the Great Hall of the People. Officials later said the meeting ran overtime because matters were discussed "in thorough detail," oot because of any impasse Haig and Huang Hua emerged smiling from their meeting and shook hands, but neither commented. It was Haig's first meeting on bilateral relations since the secretary arrived Sunday.

American and Chinese officials later beld smaller, working sessions oo bilateral relations and defense matters. Haig is scheduled to meet China's paramount leader, Vice Chairman Deng Xiaoping, on Tuesday.

An official said Haig would bold a press conference Tuesday night or Wednesday morning, to Republic of China. But he said it had been decided before the visit began that no joint communique would be issued at the end. Thus it was not clear bow or whether Peking would make koown its assessment of the Reagan administration's first high-level cootact with China.

The question may be cleared up Tuesday when Haig meets Deng Xiaoping. Deng's attitude and public comments, if any, will be watched closely for clues oo how Peking rates prospects for warm ties with President Reagan, who ran for office on a platform which included a call for closer relations with

Yorkshire Ripper lodges appeal

LONDON, June 15 (AP) — Peter Sutcliffe, coovicted for murdering 13 women in the Yorkshire Ripper slayings, Mooday lodged an appeal against the murder verdicts, his lawyers said.

Sutcliffe, 35, Britain's most notorious mass killer of women, was sentenced to a minimum 30-year life seotcoce last Month. A jury rejected his plea of guilty to manslaughter on grounds of thiminished responsibility or men-tal incompetence.

Sutcliffe, a truck driver, admitted the attempted murders of seven other women who survived his hrutal attacks over a fiveyear period in corthern England. At the trial io London's Old Bailey central criminal court, psychiatrists for both defense and prosecution said Sutcliffe was a paranoid schizophrenie. Attorney-General Sir Michael Havers was prepared to accept the manslaughter plea, but the judge ordered the case to full trial. In the appeal, Sutcliffe's lawyer argued that judge Sir Leslie Boreham was wrong to reject Havers' acceptance of the manslaughter plea.

Four dissidents go on trial in Poland

WARSAW, June 15 (AP) — The trial of four anti-Communist dissidents charged with anti-state activities opened Monday in a Warsaw provincial court and then adjourned after two hours, a court official said. The trial was adjourned notil Tuesday after a reading of the indictment.

About 150 persons applanded the arrival outside the courtroom of Leszek Moczulski, 51. leader of the "Confederation of Independent Poland" (KPN) and three of his subordinates who were released after temporary detention June 5. The courtroom was opened to the public and several dozen people were seen entering the chamber for the trial. Moczulski and Romuald Szeremietiewow,

36, Tadeusz Stanski, 33, and Tadeusz Jand-ziewszak,33, are charged with anti-state activities. They were indicted last March. Authorities set their trial date hours after their release amid scattered nationwide hunger strikes aimed at freeing them and winning celmency for two brother imprisoned 10 years ago for blowing up a school building in Opole, southwest Poland, prior to a police meeting there.

There was one Polish flag beld aloft near a banner proclaiming "Political Trials are a Shame for the Polish Nation."

The four this idents claim to be innocent of all charges against them, but they made no formal plea Monday.

During the reading of the lengthy indictment, the woman prosecutor said Moczulski slandered Poland when he told the German oewsmagazine Der Spiegel in an interview printed Sept. 15, 1980, that Poland's leadership "cannot he described as a leadership or Polish." Moczulski also advocated that a time would come when Poland would pull out of the Warsaw Pact in the Der Spiegel interview. When the prosecutor read the quote about Moczulski's opinion of the Polish leaders, people in the courtroom clapped and thejudge warned them aoother such outhurst would prompt their eviction. The release of Moczulski and his three subordinates sparked an immediate sharp response Juoe 5 from the Soviet oews agency Tass which beadlined its dispatch "Another Retreat to Counterrevolution.

The defendents argue that the establishment of new political parties is not expressly forbidden by law. The KPN was founded in 1979 with the aim of opposing Poland's postwar incorporation into the Soviet bloc.

The indictment contained detailed lists of the offenses allegedly committed by Moczulski. Article 123 states that: "Whosoever conspires to deprive the Polish People's Republic of its independence or part of its territory, to overthrow its political system by force or to weaken its defense potendal is subject to imprisonment for no less than five years, or punishment by death."

Meaowhile, Communist Party leader

Stanislaw Kania, who survived a power struggle with hard-liners in the ceotral committee last week, said Sunday be was committed to a "dialogue" to resolve Poland's problems and "I will remain faithful to that line till

But he also said it was "clear and certain" that counterrevolution would not succeed in Poland and be called for "a unified offensive ! by party members, by all its cells, to avert the threats to our Socialist bomeland."

Kania spoke at a Krakow party conference where he was elected a delegate to the extraordinary party coogress scheduled for July. The congress is expected to endorse the ecocomic and political reforms adopted since last summer's labor upheaval. The reforms have led to fears of Soviet intervention.

In a related development, Solidarity leader Lech Walesa has again called for an end to confrontation between the independent union and the Polish government, Warsaw radio reported Monday.

BELFAST, June 15 (R) — A sixth Irish Republican Army guerrilla began a hunger strike Monday at the Maze jail in Northern Ireland as part of a campaign for political prisocer status, a British government spokesman said.

He said Patrick Quinn, serving 14 years for attempted murder, possessing firearms and membership of the outlawed IRA, refused hreakfast Monday morning. The IRA said Sunday that Quinn would join five colleagues in the Maze already oo hunger strike for up to 36 days to maintain pressure on the government to concede political status. The government says it will never grant the demands.

Four prisoners have already starved them-selves to death and more than 30 persons have died in violence stemming from the hunger strike campaign, which began March

Supporters of political status for jailed guerrillas received a boost at the weekend when two Maze prisoners, hunger striker Kieran Doherty and IRA man Paddy Agnew, were elected to the Irish Republic Parliament in a general election.

Irish rivals may woo independents

DUBLIN, Ireland, June 15 (AP) - The balance of power in the Irish government rested Monday with six independents and two IRA guerrillas jailed in Northern Ireland, following the republic's inconclusive general election.

In the two weeks before parliament reconvenes, both Prime Minister Charles Haughey and chief opposition leader Gerald Fitzgerald are expected to woo the six independents in efforts to form a new government. But it remained unclear whom the independents would support.

The two Irish Republican Army guerrillas in Northern Ireland - one of them a hunger striker on the 25th day of fasting Monday will be unable to take their seats. That will reduce from 84 to 83 the oumber needed for a majority in the 166-seat Dail, or lower house of parliament, a factor in Haughey's

Final results from Thursday's voting gave Haughey's ruling Fianna Fail Party 78 seats and Fitzgerald's Fine Gael 65, both short of the needed majority. When Haughey dissolved parliament last month and called a new election, Fianna Fail, which has ruled Ireland for all but 10 of the past 49 years bad an overall majority of 17.

Fitzgerald, a former foreign minister, had sought tounseat Haughey by forming a coali-tion with the smaller Labor Party. However, Labor won only 15 seats in the election and its leader, Frank Cluskey, was not re-elected and Labor's deputies meet Wednesday to. choose a new leader.

Three of the independents were said to lean toward a fine Gael-Labor coalition, but the other three could be expected to ally themselves with Haughey. Two of the independents, John O'Connell and Neil Blaney, went to the Maze prisoo outside Belfast to visit IRA leader Bobby Saods shortly before he died of a bunger strike.

The Irish constitution does not recognize Britain's 1922 partition of the republic that created the six countries of North Ireland, and Figure Fail was founded on the principle of a united Ireland.

Although economic issues, such as an annual inflation rate of 21 percent, took precedence over Northern Ireland as a major concern among voters in pre-election polls, Haughey was under pressure to take a more active role in trying to resolve the province's

Man to his doctor. "I came home unexpectedly the other day, and saw my wife wicked, wicked woman — dailying with the milkman. My first thought was to kill her. The second to kill ber and the milkman. But then I controlled myself. A double murder like that would mean life imprisonment. I'm still young. My future before me. All would be in ruins. 'So, iostead of killing anyone, I went to the kitchen and made myself a cup of coffee."

He then continued. "Next day I came home, all ready to forgive and forget, and found her - the jezebel! - with the postman. You can imagine my rage. Kill them both and blow up the post office. Then thought what that would mean, a lifetime in prison, and me on starting on life and the future looking promising. So I went to the kitchen and had a cup of coffee

He went oo: "Then, alas, I went home again and found her with the dustman That's it, I though ... Her blood and that of at least three teams of dustmen will have to flow. That was it. Death and destruction to all. Things couldn't go on like this - the solution bas to be now, and it has to be bloody. Luckily, my sense of responsibility returned. Just in time because this time I was truly feeling merderous. So I went to the kitchen and made myself a cup of coffee."

The doctor says impatiently, "Fine fine, but what's your problem?" To which the man replies: "It's all those cups of coffee, doctor. Do you think they can harm my health?
